

THREE ARE KILLED IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

FARM PROBLEM MUST BE SOLVED TABER ASSERTS

Calls It "One of Great Unanswered Steps Towards Recovery"

GRANGE CHIEFTAIN HITS TRADE PACTS

Says Reciprocal Treaties Have Not Aided Agriculture

(By Associated Press)
PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 15.—Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, told the organization's 73rd annual convention today that "we have not yet solved our farm problem, and it remains with us as one of the great unanswered steps toward recovery."

Proof that the farmer is not receiving his share of the national income is evidenced by the fact, Taber said in his prepared keynote address, that in the last decade farmers received barely 10 per cent of the national income, including government benefit payments.

A Big Job
"The farmer's condition is brought into bold relief," he continued, "when we remember that during this same period he has educated, housed, clothed, and fed 31 per cent of the youth of our land."

During the last 10 years, Master Taber said that prices received by farmers were only equal to 78 per cent of the prices they paid for commodities, goods and services used in rural life. This makes the farm dollar 22 per cent below par and "it is more than coincidence that approximately 20 per cent of the nation's labor is unemployed."

This proves that America's greatest need is economic balance. Such disparity cannot be corrected by legislation alone. Until labor and industry will meet agriculture in solving this problem, depression will continue. Payrolls, business activity and advancing farm prices to hand in hand.

Lists Needs
"Government, business, finance and labor must unite in a long-range, broad program doing justice to tillers of the soil and (1) assuring every person in the nation an ample supply of food, clothing and shelter; (2) guaranteeing the farmers that they shall have a fair return on their products for the essential service which they render to society. Both of these objectives can be attained by cooperation on the part of all interested and the wise statesmanship at the hands of government."

Taber asserted experience had shown that reciprocal treaties have not benefited American agriculture as a whole.

A study of tables showing our exports of cotton and other basic surpluses proves that the program this far has not benefited these commodities," he said. "On the other hand, the very existence of these surpluses has a tendency to depress prices."

Declaring that the United States has the largest duty-free trade market in the world, Taber asserted "we should reduce and not increase."

Mrs. Curtis Found Name Of President McKinley Valuable, Even In Penang

(This is the second and concluding installment of a story of the highly interesting life of Mary Carr Curtis, who has devoted a half-century to missionary work.)

By RUTH OBENOUR

Mrs. Curtis tells, with evident enjoyment, of an incident during her early work in Penang. When she went there she carried a personal letter of introduction from President William A. McKinley, a name which she found created something of an impression.

McKinley, a life-long friend of her father, had given her the letter of introduction when she went to Europe to study, to enable her to meet American and French friends and officials. McKinley was governor of Ohio at the time Mrs. Curtis went to Paris and Berlin, but by the time she had reached Penang, Governor McKinley had become President McKinley.

Awakens Interest
Shortly after her arrival in the colony, Mrs. Curtis was presented to Sir John Treacher, resident governor of the island, and his wife. She offered, with her other credentials, the letter from the president of the United States. To her surprise, the letter created a singular amount of interest on the part of the governor and his lady, and the other dignitaries, including the state secretary of education.

It became, as Mrs. Curtis says, the "open sesame" for her, securing the assistance of the government and officials in projects which might have received scant attention otherwise. They offered the use of the buildings to the mission society, affording the opportunity of establishing a school under the society's guidance.

Mrs. Curtis Takes Job
Bishop Thoburn, head of that work of the church, asked Mrs. Curtis to take charge of the work. Mrs. Curtis accepted, undertook the establishment of a school for native girls. Her husband a short time later took up work at the government boys' school in Tain-ping.

Today's more than $10,000 mission property there is credited in a great measure to their interest and unselfish devotion. When the school was opened, the governor granted Mrs. Curtis "carte blanche," giving her leave to order all supplies and equipment she could find use for in the school. From that time, 1900, the school grew rapidly under her competent and wise guidance, until, later, five acres of land for school grounds and half of the cost of an additional building were added as gifts of the government and tributes to the advancement of the institution.

Today the school, now known as

Influential Party Leaders Hazard Guess On President's Plans

WILL RELY UPON UNINSTRUCTED

All of Which, of Course, Depends Upon Third Term Decision

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Persons high in Democratic party councils predicted today that President Roosevelt would make no fight for Democratic convention delegates in preferential primaries next spring.

They expressed the opinion that, even if Mr. Roosevelt intended to run for a third term, he would not authorize use of his name on the primary ballots in states requiring candidates' consent.

Instead, they predicted, he would rely on uninstructed delegates and on his chances of picking up delegations from states pledged to other candidates after they had recorded their primary-directed preferences in initial voting at the convention.

Declines Information

Mr. Roosevelt once more declined to shed any light yesterday on his third term intentions. At the White House press conference, a reporter mentioned the week-end announcement that Vice President Garner's name would go before the Democratic convention.

"Does that change your plans in any way, Mr. President?" he asked. The President smiled and told his questioner not to be so subtle. Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.) told reporters today that he thought Mr. Roosevelt should state immediately whether he intended to run again.

The next election is going to be crucial," Van Nuys said, "and the party and public are entitled to this information so that they can weigh the several candidates and pick the best man in the event President Roosevelt declares he will not run."

McNutt In Field

It was learned on good authority that a fellow Indian of Van Nuys—Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator—would try to win Democratic convention delegates in many of the 12 states which use the primary system.

The only states omitted, it was said reliably, would be ones where a bitter contest with a favorite son

2 YOUNGSTOWN MEN PERISH AS TRUCKS CRASH

Die in Flames After Head-On Collision Near North Jackson

STRUTHERS MAN IS THIRD VICTIM

Skull Fractured As His Bakery Truck Collides With Freight Train

Three men were dead today following traffic accidents in the district north of Salem.

Earl Lenhart, 41, and Robert Longmore, both of Youngstown, perished in flames after the truck in which they were riding collided head-on at 1 a. m. on Route 18, four miles west of North Jackson, with another truck operated by Charles E. Ziegler, 40, of Toledo, who escaped injury.

Thomas Davis, 33 of Youngstown, riding with Lenhart and Longmore, is in serious condition in South Side hospital at Youngstown.

Bakery Truck Rams Train

Ben Horvath, 21, of Struthers, died in the same hospital at 9:30 p. m. yesterday after his bakery truck rammed into a Pennsylvania railroad freight train at the Rosemont crossing, three miles northwest of Ellsworth.

The Warren state highway patrol station investigated the two-truck collision, while the Salem patrol was called on the other accident.

Officers said the light panel truck in which the three Youngstown men were riding crashed head-on with the steel-laden truck, driven by Ziegler.

Ziegler quickly clambered from his truck cab and dragged Davis from the other truck just before the gasoline tank exploded and the vehicle burst into flames. At the hospital, Davis was reported in serious condition "suffering from a fractured skull and burns."

Clothing On Fire

His clothing was on fire when he was rescued by Ziegler, who extinguished the flames. Ziegler told state patrolmen he did not know the two other men were in the truck. Flames prevented his reaching them, anyway.

Bodies of the victims were removed to a Youngstown funeral home.

In the other accident, Horvath suffered a skull fracture. The truck hit the side of a car just ahead of the caboose.

State Patrolman R. K. Jones said the truck was dragged 25 feet by the train. The train crew, apparently unaware of the mishap, failed to stop. The train was headed toward Warren, from Alliance.

Persons living near the scene had Horvath removed to the hospital where he died about three hours later.

SUSPEND WORK ON LISBON ROAD

Highway Department Halts Activities Until Next Spring; Road Will Be Open This Winter

The state highway department today ordered work halted on the resurfacing of the Lisbon road, because of cold weather. The improvement project will be resumed next spring.

In the meantime, the road will be open to traffic. The bars will be taken down within a week. Improvement of the Salem end of the stretch, from the railroad tracks to the concrete, has been completed, the road having been both resurfaced and widened. The Hays Construction Co. of Bellefontaine has about three miles to go on the Lisbon end of the job.

Work of this type is not permitted by the state highway department when the mercury slips consistently below the 45-degree mark.

The big spreader being used in the work will be stored near Lisbon until next spring.

Fight Grass Fire On Tolerton Farm

City officials yesterday received a letter from a west side resident, asking compensation for damage to his property caused by the grass fire which swept the West End park track and adjoining lands last Friday afternoon. The bill will be formally presented to city council next Tuesday night.

BELIEVING THE WORST

Good advice has been given the Dutch by their government. The advice may not save them from outside powers that threaten their safety but it will help to save them from themselves.

Remember, they have been told, that in wartime it is natural for enemies to believe the worst of each other. Great Britain and France are therefore ready to believe Germany intends to violate Holland's neutrality. Twenty-five years ago, Germany, believing France intended to strike at it through Belgium, violated Belgian neutrality.

The Dutch, themselves, don't want their neutrality violated by either side. Their leaders are intelligent enough to understand that the way to safety is to refrain from furnishing provocation. They are not belligerents; they should not complicate their situation, therefore, by thinking like belligerents. That amounts to playing into the hands of those anxious to believe the worst of the Dutch.

The United States could stand some advice in the same direction.

SPECIFICATIONS

Indian summer is an unexpected interval of clear weather between late fall and early winter. It is preceded by what is sometimes called squaw winter, when the temperature first drops below freezing. Indian summer is characterized by a calm atmosphere and bright sunlight.

Some insist it is preceded, also, by snow, but that is a moot point. Everybody agrees, however, that anything approximating summer weather this time of year must be Indian summer and therefore will be of several weeks' duration. When four beautiful days occur in a row, as they did Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, a lot of excitable persons naturally start talking about Indian summer.

Is it? Was it? We're stumped. When last seen the office weather expert, who wouldn't know either, was huddled in his overcoat, on his way to see a man about some coal. Probably skeptical, like all weather experts.

BURDEN

"Take up the white man's burden," cried Rudyard Kipling, and 10,000,000 Britishers cheerfully took 'er up wherever they found civilization in the doldrums. In those days what Rudyard Kipling said came out of the horse's mouth, so to speak. Few literary men have had so much effect on government policy and popular thought.

All of which would be water over the dam, except that Great Britain is taking soldiers out of China and there is talk in London of United States soldiers taking their place. No doubt it's being said that one British Tommy camping in the rear of the Maginot line is worth three on either side of the Wall of China.

At the same time, as is commonly known, it is more than talk that one unit of the British fleet in the North sea is worth three in the China sea, and that's interesting to Americans too—for an obvious reason. Things are happening rapidly in the Pacific area these days, but without any Rudyard Kipling to explain why it's manifest destiny and, therefore, glorious. What the white men need isn't more burdens, but poets to lighten the load with inspired phrases.

FIGHTING FOR THE NEUTRALS

Neutrality in Europe is more often a condition than a principle. In the United States it's the reverse. Americans don't believe in getting into wars, but see nothing inconsistent about taking sides. Europeans have no illusions about what will happen if they take sides. They will be in the war. Consequently, they must make no mistakes about getting into the war on the right side in order to survive.

This is the reason neutral governments hold the center of the stage in the war's third month. Combatants are in a tense struggle to win allies. Winning of Russia by Germany, after Britain and France had failed, was a grave upset to the balance of power which the latter two governments are trying desperately to repair.

They apparently have kept Turkey out of the Communazi bloc. They lost Poland and the Baltic states, except Finland, which still hangs in the balance. They hope they've driven a wedge between Germany and Italy, Spain and Switzerland they number among true neutrals; i. e., countries that can't be converted. Yugoslavia and Roumania are still on the auction block. Greece, Bulgaria and Portugal lean toward the Allies, as do Norway and Sweden.

Denmark, which can't afford to be for the Allies, can't afford to be for Germany either and probably will continue to be neutral. The Netherlands and Belgium, caught between Germany and France again, will remain neutral as long as they can, but ultimately will lean to the side with the best chance of winning—presumably the Allies.

Hungary is lost to Germany and, of course, Poland, but the prospect is that by spring, when the war starts in earnest, the lineup will be numerically in favor of Great Britain and France. The promises they are making to win support will determine the shape of Europe's next war—the one after this one. It takes a lot of converts to balance the coup that won Russia for Germany.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, November 16

A PARTICULARLY progressive and productive state of affairs is read from a very interesting chain of planetary configurations. Sudden and surprising events may push things forward at a lively and unprecedented tempo, with changes in plans, objectives and surroundings quite revolutionary or radical in effect. Decidedly important contacts may be made with large corporations, political, diplomatic or fraternal organizations, with which finesse and strategem may be unexpectedly lucrative. There may be delays and impediments but these seem to vanish.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a memorable and notably progressive year, with many major ambitions being swept along with whirlwind and surprising tempo. It is a time for pushing toward new goals, with the prospect of powerful interests, political, diplomatic or fraternal, aiding and abetting. These should be cultivated, as new and constructive plans are promised unexpected cooperation. But do not be discouraged by some delays, postponements or disappointments of a temporary nature, possibly due to a low physical condition.

A child born on this day may be clever, original, shrewd and ambitious, and may attain great heights because of its ingenuity, skill and gracious personality, although its physical constitution may demand attention or safe guarding.

In the interesting game of matrimony, Robert Quillen finds the score tied as between men and women. Listen to him: "Still, for every woman who makes a fool of a man there is another who makes a man of a fool."

Here is an Ohioan who produced a fourteen-inch sweet potato. If he had another one and a possum, he'd be ready for a great feast.

A news item says: "A German freighter sailed from Chile Friday." But the captain doesn't know how far it is from Chile to a warm reception.

Hitler shouldn't complain because people try to torpedo him. He asks for it daily, and it isn't sporting to grouch.

If American inventors are so ingenious, why don't they get up a foolproof can-opener?

No Treatment Is Sometimes Best Treatment, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
How can the habit of bed-wetting be broken?

This question recurs quite regularly in my correspondence. The habit of bed-wetting disturbs parents out of all proportion to its seriousness. Usually no treatment and no discussion of the problem is better than fussy treatment. All children grow out of the habit in time.

Proper training in the use of a vessel is, of course, assumed to have been practiced. If, in spite of this training, bed-wetting continues, it is advisable to try to find a local or general cause. The general health of the child should be examined and especially to see that there is no form of diabetes, and an examination should be made to see that there is no local irritation. Reduction in the amount of fluids, especially after the evening meal, is an obvious form of procedure. Punishment should never be used. Suggestion is a good form of treatment.

DIETS FOR DETECTING FOOD ALLERGY

Can food allergy be detected by the use of diets?

People who have allergic manifestations in the skin, such as recurrent hives, or allergic manifestations in the nose, such as chronic hay fever, may not give a skin reaction to show which particular food is responsible.

The use of so-called elimination diets has been used to attempt to detect the substance which causes the allergy. These diets are based on a knowledge of what are the commonest foods which cause allergy. Thus, there are egg-free, wheat-free and milk-free diets.

Four elimination diets which can be used in succession are as follows:

	Diet No. 1	Diet No. 2	Diet No. 3	Diet No. 4
Cereal	Rice	Corn	Rice	Milk alone
		Tapiooca	Rye	for the test
Bread	Rice biscuit	Corn pone	Rye-rice	period; two
Meat or fish	Lamb	Bacon	Beef	to three
		Chicken		quarts a day
Vegetables	Lettuce	Squash	Tomatoes
	Spinach	Asparagus	Beets
	Carrots	Peas	String beans
Fruits and Jams	Lemon	Pineapple	Grapefruit
and fruit drinks	Pears	Apricot	Pears
	Peaches	Prunes	Peaches
Miscellaneous	Sugar	Sugar	Sugar
	Olive oil	Mazola oil	Wesson oil
	Salt	Salt	Salt
	Gelatin	Karo corn	Gelatin
	Syrup made	syrup	Sugar made
	from cane		from cane
	sugar		sugar
	flavored with		flavored with
	maple		maple
	Olives
	(unstuffed)

The patient can carry this on for some time without danger, of nutritional disorder or vitamin starvation. If while pursuing one diet the allergic symptoms appear, the conclusion is that some article in the diet is the cause of them. The patient then moves on to Diet No. 2, etc.

was placed under the supervision of her family physician by Common Pleas Judge Neal L. Lora after hearing officials testified at a hearing in a crowded courtroom that she is now sane. There was no opposition to her release.

Mrs. Fink was acquitted by a jury last September of murdering her infant son. She testified at her trial that her mind snapped temporarily because of worry over an estrangement with her husband.

Neatly attired in a black tailored suit and a white blouse, Mrs. Fink said before starting back to her home in Clyde that she hoped to resume working in a candy kitchen.
She expressed a desire to earn enough money to take a beauty culture course.

MCKINLEY NAME USED IN PENANG

Mrs. Mary Carr Curtis,
Veteran Missionary
Finds It Valuable

Treachery herself is responsible, Mrs. Curtis claims, for much of the success of the school, for she interested herself in its development from the first.

Mission workers and officials who remember the long hours and strenuous labors required to build such an institution, are firm in their claims that the school's present position is due to the unstinting time, effort and devotion which she gave gladly in the interests of the project.

Credits McKinley Letter
When their words are pointed out to Mrs. Curtis, she smiles and says it was the letter of introduction from President McKinley which gave her prestige enough to win the attention of those who were in a position to help the school.

For five years Mrs. Curtis and her husband worked together at the Taping mission, but before the new building which had been given the mission could be opened, Mrs.
Curtis' health had failed. The climate of the beautiful land which is only four degrees from the equator had proved disastrous for the young minister's health. They were compelled to return to America, where they spent a winter in Arizona, hoping that the rare climate of that region would benefit the young missionary, but in the spring, when they returned to their parent in Ohio, it was with the knowledge that his health would never be improved.

Rev. Curtis died on Sept. 9, 1902, ending a promising career of service, which, even in its short span,
had accomplished much.

Feels Need of Work
At home, again, and alone, Mrs.
Curtis felt the need of an absorbing interest and, desiring to continue the work of aiding in a cause which was still speaking its needs and prayers to her, she turned to the work she and her husband had started in Penang and Taping.

Entreaties for her return during the passing years testified to the place she held in the mission school, now a great institution.

A few months after her husband's death, Mrs. Curtis was invited to speak in Columbus at a missions conference where a program increasing the scope and work of the foreign branch was discussed.

The post of branch organizer was created and Mrs. Curtis was named in 1903 to begin the work of founding new auxiliaries, instilling others with new life and assisting conference secretaries.

Post of Achievement
Her particular talents in meeting and approaching people, her informal colorful manner of speaking to large and small groups, her intimate knowledge of the problems to be faced and her ready suggestions for solving them proved successful in making the post one of achievement and importance.

In 1913, after serving as field secretary for the Cincinnati branch of the conference, she became national student secretary of the Women's Foreign Missionary society. Seven years later, in 1920, Mrs. Curtis resigned to accept the position of professor of missionary principles and practice in the department of religious education of Boston university.

In the last 40 years the work to which Mrs. Curtis has devoted her life has prospered, fulfilling her greatest ambitions and hopes.

In those years, far from retiring as would have been her privilege had she chosen to do so, Mrs. Curtis has turned to new interest and projects.

Started "Sister College" Movement
Today she is recognized as a leader in the foreign mission work of the church, honored as the leader and founder of the widespread "Sister College" movement, and sponsor of a world peace contest which has attracted international recognition.

During the seven years she was national student secretary Mrs.
Curtis was successful in arousing interest in missions among college women and enlisting leaders for the foreign field, visiting hundreds active educational movement against war. The loyalty of women often makes them take an active part in conflicts, women who in peace-of colleges, talking with, addressing, learning to know and influencing thousands of women. She traveled from east to west coast and back again as many as three and four times a year, visiting leading women's colleges and universities from the Atlantic to the Pacific, addressing conventions and conferences, lecturing, making new friends.

The "Sister College" movement, which has been adopted by leading women's universities of the country, including Wellesley and Vassar, Mrs. Curtis regards as the greatest work of her life.

Describing its origin, she says:
"It all came about because of a letter I received one day.

Receives a Request
"Across the ocean and half-way around the world came a request,
'Can you find us a young woman with a college degree to take charge of our High school?'

"Imagine an American school board sending such a communication to a foreign land! Imagine women's organizations in America dependent upon foreign women for officers!

"Qualified leadership among American women is so much a matter of course that we visualize with difficulty two-thirds of the women of the world unprepared for the responsibilities a democracy-loving age is bringing.

"For example, while one student from Lucknow, India, college achieved the highest place open to any woman student-officer of the World's Student Federation, only one-half of one percent of her 170 million Indian sisters can read."

The request for a teacher set Mrs. Curtis to planning a way for American college women to aid in the education of their sisters from over the seas.

Provide Education
Funds given by American college women are used to provide education for girls of other lands capable, deserving and desirous of training for leadership of their people. A system of exchanging professors and students is provided for, with part of the funds donated going to construct buildings and schools in other countries, establish fellowships for study and other educational facilities for foreign women.

The movement has become "one of the important factors in promoting international friendship," a cause Mrs. Curtis believes will be the eventual road to world peace.
And high among her other accomplishments, in her efforts to arouse interest in the furtherance of international goodwill and the promotion of friendship, is the peace contest, which she has sponsored for several years. Essays written by college girls throughout the country are awarded prizes each year by Mrs. Curtis.

Writer and Lecturer
In addition to her many other activities she is credited with being a writer and lecturer of national prominence, having served from 1912 to 1920 as assistant editor of the Women's Missionary Friend, Boston, a contributor to church periodicals and publications, chairman of the committee in charge of the MacDowell fellowship for Oriental women, active clubwoman and leader in women's organizations here and abroad.

She has had an enviable public speaking career and has served as honorary president of the Mount Union College Women's club and the American Girls club of Berlin.
And with all her strenuous public life she has become known for her hobbies of landscape gardening, stamp collecting and collecting of Oriental curios.

The woman who has been a teacher on three continents and is still active as speaker and writer, last June celebrated her 75th birthday and the 50th anniversary of her beginning in mission work.
More than 150 friends appeared at her home on that day to mark the double anniversary.

Speaks at Niles
Two weeks ago she filled her most recent lecture date, addressing congregation and friends of the Niles Presbyterian church during the week of its 100th anniversary.

Speaking of women and the part they play in world peace, Mrs.
Curtis avers:

"Women in general dread war.
Instead of covering up the fear of it, they must undertake an

Batting 1000 Percent

time direct their lives to promotion of peace. Therefore, women must make good use of their peacetime freedom to train themselves, their families, their children to believe in and work for peace.

"American women," she believes,
"have an important role in the peace move, because they have a better understanding of world events and conditions, they have an independent way of thinking that makes them hard to dictate to and helps them make decisions of their own."

"American women respond to a challenge for anything which seems worthwhile particularly the college women of modern America. She is not as sentimental as she used to be, well poised and well prepared to accept her place in the world."

Progressive ideas, a firm faith in things that are right and good and tireless devotion to the promotion of those things have been the tenets by which Mrs. Curtis has ordered her life. Loflier-sounding aims have been known, but no sunder nor more closely-followed ideals have been found.

Mrs. Curtis' life is a completely satisfying example for all of us who would find contentment and happiness.

The End

Woman Is Brought From Frozen Sleep

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15. — Physicians at Jewish hospital slowly brought a 46-year-old woman out of an eight-year frozen sleep today and sought to determine more definitely the effects of lowered body temperature in checking cancer.

The awakening process was started late yesterday but attendants took care to keep the "warming up" at a slow pace to prevent any possible adverse reaction. For the 108 hours, her second frozen sleep in a week, her body was kept at a temperature of 84 degrees, 146 degrees below normal, by means of ice packs.

She was fed by passing a glucose solution through tubes in her nose.
Dr. Walter List, hospital superintendent, said that the possibility of a third treatment would depend on findings in an examination as soon as the woman had "readjust-ed herself to her normal surroundings."

Dr. Paul W. Gauss, pastor of Westminster church, Youngstown, reported that Miss Winifred Warner has received a unanimous call to become a commissioned church worker at Westminster. This is a new office created by the 1938 general assembly and corresponds to that of assistant pastor. Miss Warner directed young people's work at Westminster for seven years, resigning two years ago to accept a position with the Methodist church in New Jersey. Her return brings back one of the most respected youth leaders known to the church in Ohio. She will take up her new duties in June.

The committee on national missions, headed by Dr. Howard A.
Talbot of First church, Youngstown, reported that the Butler Memorial church of Youngstown is being dissolved. The building will be given over to social service work.
The Foster Memorial church of that city, it was also announced, is going through court litigation and is to be disposed of to another denominational group.

Rev. Zoltan Irshay spoke of the fine progress being made in the Campbell Neighborhood house and called attention to Campbell day,
the second Sunday in December.

The Salem church will observe that day along with the other churches.
Proceeds of the loose offering will go to Campbell for carrying on the work among the 21 different nationalities of the Neighborhood house.

ITHACA, N. Y. — Wheat insurance is gaining in popularity in New York State. A 30 per cent increase was noted in paid-up applications for "all risk" crop insurance on the 1940 winter wheat crop.
Tabulations show that 818 farmers have insured their crops for next year compared with 635 on the 1939
winter wheat crop.

Zuppke Moaning About Illinois' Chances Against Buckeyes

HOWEVER, HE'S QUIETLY HOPING FOR AN UPSET

Team's In Terrible Shape, He Says; Schmidt Prepares Bucks

(By Associated Press)
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 15.—Foxy Bob Zuppke isn't talking much these days, and when he does he means about Illinois' chances of victory Saturday against Ohio State, Big Ten leader and top heavy choice to win undisputed possession of the title.

Nobody is paying much attention to his moaning because that's characteristic of all grid teachers—but Zuppke just isn't "in" when you begin talking in terms of upsetting Ohio State. An upset, in his book, is when a team given absolutely no chance to win does just that.

That was the situation when the Illinois blasted Michigan from the ranks of the undefeated and untied two weeks ago. Up to that time the Illinois had scored one touchdown while losing three games and tying one.

"In Terrible Shape"
"I don't know anything about Ohio State," says Zuppke. "Our boys are in terrible shape. Three of them, Quarterback Ralph Ehl, Guard Wes Martin and Center Bill Lenich, haven't even dressed this week. We don't have enough good reserves."

Which is true, but Zuppke failed to mention that four of his first stringers played the full 60 minutes in the last three games, two of which the Illinois won.

While the odds are all against Illinois springing another upset this Saturday, Zuppke tipped his hand somewhat by giving his squad some new plays Monday to use against the Bucks, indicating the underdogs would stand plenty of watching.

While outmanned in most other departments, the Illinois have probably as good a punter as there is in the conference in Ehl, one of Illinois' iron men.

Bucks In Practice
Coach Francis Schmidt has been giving his Bucks intensive passing and kicking drills the past two days to prepare for the invasion of the Champaign squad. Much time has been spent on spot kicking, implying Schmidt has wholesome respect for the opposing safety men. The Bucks need only this game to tie for the title. And if they win and Minnesota defeats Iowa, the crown would be theirs alone.

IOWA is grooming an aerial attack for the Minnesota test Saturday. Nile Kinnick, ace back, has been in the role of receiver in practice with Ed McLain and Floyd Dean the tossers. Bob Peterson has been promoted to left halfback on the Wisconsin varsity. Purdue, the Badgers' foe this week, has lost Carl Verplank, senior guard, for the last two games because of injuries. The Boiler-makers are stressing blocking in practice.

INDIANA, which owns a neat passing attack, is concentrating on a more effective ground game in preparation for the game with Michigan State. Another team seeking improved blocking and more of it is Michigan, victim of Illinois and Minnesota. The Wolves seek a path back to the victory trail against Pennsylvania. Tom Harmon missed practice with a stomach ailment. Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern said after Saturday's defeat by Purdue he "never thought it possible for a team to gain 330 yards from scrimmage and block two kicks and not score." Nile Kinnick used to catch Bob Feller's fast ball when both played amateur baseball.

Those long lost Dempsey-Willard fight films have come to light here and will be shown around the country.

Headline Headliner

This week's glib picture frame goes to the Chicago Times for its headline on the Iowa-Notre Dame game: "Get the point? Notre Dame doesn't — and loses." Keenest we saw.

Barney Expands

BARNEY ROSS, already in the jewelry and printing business, is joining with the idea of taking over Dave's Blue Room, a Broadway night spot. Pro football coaches are subscribing to the Texas papers to keep track of Bulldog Turner, Hardin-Simmons' crack center. One of the better informed gossipists says several unnamed eastern schools will blackball Southeastern and Southern conference teams because they can't compete with the salaries down there.

Observation Ward

NEW YORK's six-day bike race will run only five days. And Cleveland will start its race Christmas eve. What next? Today's Guest Star Henry A. Sullivan, Salem (Mass.) News: "Faculty Manager Joseph B. Smith of the Salem High school claims the longest run of the football season. During the game with Somerville, a roofer grabbed a ball that had been kicked into the stands and went away from there. Mr. Smith, carrying a weight handicap of 15 silver dollars, gave chase. He caught the runner after a 400-yard dash through several broken fields."

PITTSFIELD, Mass. — Probate Judge Arthur M. Robinson allowed the most unusual will to come before him. It was written by Mrs. Helene Leitner Klobier of Great Barrington on the back of a Goya painting and disposed of a $207 estate.

PARIS — Young Frenchmen are an inch taller than those of the pre-war generation. Girls are half an inch taller than their mothers were at the same age. According to statistics issued, the height of the average French boy of 17 is 5 feet 1 1/2 inches.

Coaches Argue, Adding Zest To Midwest Football Season

By EARL HILLIGAN

Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Perhaps it's all done in the spirit of good clean fun—but the way in which several midwest coaches are winding up and swinging at each other and the officials is adding a lot of good old fashioned punch to this already zestful collegiate football season.

Harry Stuhldrener, Wisconsin's chief gridiron mentor, is the latest to let go with a verbal "roundhouse"—directed at Illinois, which last Saturday whipped Wisconsin 7 to 0. Harry—possibly with tongue in cheek—accused Illinois fans of poor sportsmanship by rudely yelling whenever the Badgers began calling signals.

Movies Show Play

In addition, Stuhldrener let it be known that Wisconsin's movies of the game showed that Jimmy Smith stepped out of bounds in his 82-yard touchdown jaunt. All this, of course, called for comment from Coach Bob Zuppke, to wit: "I'm surprised, Harry knows better. Fans go to football games to shout themselves hoarse and wouldn't it be sad to play a game before a crowd of Egyptian mummies?"

"As to whether Smith ran out of bounds, movies will never settle it. I've always opposed movies.

They start too many arguments and prove too little. Anyway, our movies indicate he didn't step out of bounds."

Mal Elward of Purdue recently let go a double-barreled blast charging that the official who ruled on the field goal by which Notre Dame beat Purdue 3 to 0 was not in position to accurately judge the kick.

Some persons view these proceedings as very healthy signs. What football in some sectors needs now, they contend, are a few honest-to-goodness grudge battles and a little Monday morning brick slinging instead of the very worn comment of the "you had the best team and mine was terrible variety."

Coaches generally like to win too well to believe that malarkey, anyway.

On Peddie Eleven

Joseph Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Morris of Ridgewood dr., is a member of the junior varsity football squad at Peddie school at Hightstown, N. J. Morris, a graduate of Salem High, is in his first year at the New Jersey prep school.

2 YOUNGSTOWN MEN ARE KILLED

Several persons suffered minor injuries in traffic accidents near Salem last night, the patrol reported.

Machines driven by Earl Yeager, 22, of Franklin Square and Leo Kohn, 36, of Hubbard, crashed at the intersection of Routes 62 and 534 in Damascus at 7:30 p. m., injuring four persons.

Kohn suffered a back injury while Yeager lost several front teeth and suffered cuts on his hands and knees. Carl Willard, 47, of Salem, a passenger in Yeager's car, was treated for a head laceration. Ray Leach, 50, of Youngstown, riding with Kohn, also received a head cut.

The accident occurred when Kohn stopped to make a turn on Route 534, the Garfield road, and was struck by Yeager's car.

James M. Helm, 40, of 830 Franklin ave. and Cecil Labus, 22, of Alliance, escaped unhurt when their cars tumbled on the Damascus road, about 1,000 feet west of Salem, at 8:50 p. m., the patrol reported.

At Lisbon today police held a car owned by Earl Coppock of Columbiana which was found at 12:30 a. m. in the yard of the residence of F. C. Davis, N. Market st., Lisbon, after the machine had crashed through a road blockade and then cut through Davis' lawn, uprooting a large tree.

Acting Patrolman George Hayes said two men were seen fleeing from the car.

HUNT BODIES OF FIRE'S VICTIMS

Rescue Workers Estimate 500 or More Dead In Venezuela Tragedy

(By Associated Press)

CARACAS, Venezuela, Nov. 15.—Volunteer workers searched Lake Maracaibo today for the bodies of 500 to 600 persons estimated to have died in a fire which swept the oil town of Lagunillas, a village of wooden shacks perched on stilts at the water's edge.

While the searchers paddled through floating debris and charred piling—all that remained of the shanty town which housed 2,500 natives employed in the great oil fields nearby—the government mobilized its resources to aid survivors.

Planes Bring Help

Airplanes brought scores of doctors and nurses to aid in the relief work while additional fire and police supplies were rushed by boat from the other side of the lake—60 miles away. National guard detachments took over the task of maintaining order.

President Eleazar Lopez Contreras quickly raised a relief fund of 355,000 bolivars ($10,050), which was swelled by subscriptions taken up in many Venezuelan towns and cities.

Several years ago the Venezuelan government, with the assistance of the foreign oil companies, built a new village called Ciudad Ojeda to replace the flimsy, oil-soaked Lagunillas. However, in spite of the fact the natives were supplied at the new town with free water, gas and light service, they did not like it and failed to move in great numbers.

Today the oil companies supplied transportation to move the refugees from the burned town to Ciudad Ojeda. Temporary quarters also were established hastily in the nearby town of Bachaquero.

Recovery of the bodies of the victims, many of whom were believed to have been children, was hindered by the debris which covered the water. Approximately 100 bodies had been recovered last night, and authorities could only guess at the number still lying beneath the wreckage.

The cause of the fire, under investigation by a special commission composed of three cabinet ministers, remained uncertain, but was generally attributed to the explosion of a kerosene lamp in one of the shacks.

So swiftly did the flames sweep through the shanty village that hundreds were trapped in their homes without a chance to reach the shore.

The surface of the lake, continually covered with a film of oil, was transformed into a fiery cauldron which cut off all chance of escape. The flames, roaring high above the surface of the water, balked rescue attempts.

William J. Reed, 70, Dies At Son's Home

William J. Reed, 70, who operated the Reed printing shop here for a number of years, died at 5:45 p. m. Tuesday at the home of his son, Walter, in Beloit, following a long illness.

Born Oct. 25, 1869, in Beaver county, Pa., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Reed, he lived in Salem a number of years. About a month ago he went to the home of his son. He was a member of the Christian church here.

He leaves one son, at whose home he died; a daughter, Mrs. Lowell Flick of Beloit, formerly of Salem; five grandchildren; four brothers, Harry of Butler, Pa., Edward of Lisbon, Irvin of Signal and Francis of Minerva; three sisters, Mrs. Mabel Stigenbauer of Minerva, Mrs. Joseph Mountford of Irwin, Tenn., and Mrs. Zella Henderson of East Palestine.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Warrick funeral home in Columbiana in charge of Rev. C. F. Evans, pastor of the Christian church here. Burial will be in the East Fairfield cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Thursday.

County's Red Cross Drive Progressing

LISBON, Nov. 15.—Rev. John M. Cameron, chairman of the Columbiana County Red Cross chapter, announced today the annual roll call, which opened last Saturday, to continue until Nov. 30, is progressing nicely with many memberships being recorded by the various workers and places of enrollment.

The quota for Lisbon and Center township has been set at 800 members which is slightly higher than last year when 620 were enrolled. Rev. Cameron stated, Rev. Cameron also reminded the public that only 50 cents of each membership, whether it is $1, $5, or $25, is sent to the national chapter while the balance remains in the local chapter for use at home.

There are approximately 30 workers canvassing Lisbon and Center township in the enrollment drive, in addition to the banks which accept memberships, with schools, business houses and industries co-operating.

He's No Welcher

SANTA MARIA, Calif.—Journalism Instructor Harold Burum offered to eat his hat if his students ever got the high school paper out on time.

The students did it and called on Burum to down the straw topper. They forgot that he was a chemistry teacher, too. He concocted a brew that reduced the straw to sandwich-spread consistency, spread it on crackers and ate it.

No Charge At All For The Triplets

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Elmer Coon saved money by having triplets instead of just one child.

When she went to the hospital, Dr. A. L. Walters told her if she had twins he would omit the charge for the second baby; if triplets, he would make no charge at all; if quadruplets, he would pay the assistant's fee, and if quintuplets, they would "split the pot" on whatever the babies earned from photographs and advertising.

might result or where other unfavorable circumstances prevailed. McNutt was reported likely to stay out of the primary in Ohio. Senator Donahey (D-Ohio) has been mentioned as a possible recipient of that state's Democratic presidential preference.

Friends of McNutt reiterated that his candidacy was contingent on Mr. Roosevelt's intentions and that the security administrator would leave the race if the President entered it.

May Bring Others Out

Despite the indications that both McNutt and Mr. Roosevelt would stay out of the Ohio primary, the filings for that contest may bring into the open other presidential candidacies now behind the scenes.

Ohio's election law requires that each candidate for election as a convention delegate must file a statement disclosing his first and second choices for the presidential nomination of his party. The name of no candidate for the presidency may be used in such statements, however, without his written consent.

Notice of delegates candidacies must be filed at least 60 days before the Ohio primary, which occurs the second Tuesday in May. This means that presidential candidates desiring to figure in the balloting must give consent publicly early in March.

The earliest of the presidential primaries is scheduled in New Hampshire the second Tuesday in March. Since the names of presidential candidates do not have to appear on the ballots there, the significance of this voting may not be so apparent.

crease our free list." Over 61 per cent of all goods landed here last year, he observed, came in duty-free.

Taber said that during the last five year period, with the exception of cotton and tobacco, 97 per cent of the commodities grown on the farms of America were sold in the continental United States, so that "it is at once apparent that the first step in restoring agricultural purchasing power is within the reach of the nation itself, regardless of turmoil and dislocation abroad."

Steps deemed essential by Taber for the restoration of agricultural prosperity included:

"Changing relief rolls into private payrolls, and taking every possible step that will free industry from handicaps and increase the opportunity for employment; curbing present tariff inequalities, and above all else preserving the American market for the American farmer up to the limits of his ability to supply its needs; employing all the possibilities of research, science, chemistry and invention in finding new uses and non-food uses for products of the farm; a constant, persistent effort by state and federal authorities, educational agencies and by farm organizations themselves to promote cooperative marketing wherever it can succeed; checking undue advance in such farm costs as interest, freight rates, taxation, wages and processing expense, all largely beyond the farmer's control."

in Him, and the hope of the world rests upon our realization of the full implication of such a faith," the ministers point out.

Just A Memory

VALPARAISO, Ind.—A Chicago woman wrote County Clerk Lewis Keller to ask for her marriage license certificate.

She said she was married in 1938 but couldn't remember the man's name nor the exact date.

"It was somewhere during the month of August," she wrote, "and his first name was Eddie". The clerk couldn't find any record of the license.
